July 9, 2008 - NYSE Euronext Advanced Trading Solutions today affirmed its industry leadership with the announcement that Wombat, a world leader in market data management solutions, is the first market data vendor to provide connectivity to the new SWXess Trading Platform, three months ahead of its October launch.

SWXess facilitates all types of trading offering higher capacity and lower latency based on a modular set of industry standard interfaces and connectivity options. SWXess supports high frequency algorithmic trading and direct market access while reducing costs for participants by ensuring applications are tailored to their specific requirements. Early adoption of the new SWXess Feed Handler will allow customers to take advantage of SWX member testing, in advance of the new platform's official launch.

"NYSE Euronext's commercial technology division has provided us with key elements for our new market data solution," said Chris Landis, SWX CIO. "The Wombat SWXess Feed Handler is therefore a natural fit for our new platform".

The SWXess Feed Handler, which is compatible with all market platforms supported by Wombat, joins the continually expanding Wombat Universal Feed Handler suite.
